

Employee Engagement & Satisfaction in Focus (Part II)

The issue of skills shortages continues to top the charts in the world of work. Across the industry, there is a shortage of talented professionals and it is severely setting companies back in terms of profitability. Rising trends in staff layoffs, combined with demographic change, are putting employers under enormous pressure to act and implement solutions rapidly. The question that companies are now asking themselves in the debate is how to retain their employees and increase their satisfaction.

Employee Experience as a key factor

48 per cent of employees believe that they could easily find a new job.

These are some of the ways to increase employee engagement

Are you looking for highly qualified experts? We are happy to help with selection and activation.

